

Kelley-Ross Community Pharmacy Residency Program Experiential Opportunities

Residents with Kelley-Ross have a wide variety of experiences because we want our residents involved across our service lines, across our divisions, embracing the full spectrum of what it means to be a healthcare professional. This includes patient care, service development, precepting, business planning, staff development, and leadership. Some examples of past projects our residents have done include, but are not limited to:

- Development of HIV-PrEP program
- In-home Medication Coaching
- Development of Hepatitis C Screening Program
- Development of Hepatitis C Treatment Program
- Community presentation opportunities
- Internal quality metric development
- MTM program management
- Precepting students at The University of Washington School of Pharmacy (UW SOP) skills lab, topic discussions, project development
- Developing a teaching philosophy and receiving a teaching certificate from UW SOP
- Coordination and development of Journal Club including CE credentialing for staff
- Tobacco Cessation Program development
- Incorporating spirometry and asthma/COPD assessment into community pharmacy practice
- Expanding Transition of Care initiatives
- Lactation Support Service development in Community Pharmacy Practice
- Quality improvement in documentation
- Develop medical billing strategies for community pharmacists
- Drug utilization reviews
- Presentations at local and state conferences
- Staff development through pharmacy month and various staff celebration events